SOUND ADVICE FOR POULTRY BEGINNERS

A Flock of Leghorns.

Do not imagine that you should give up everything else in order to engage in poultry-keeping.

It is almost best to keep chickens or other poultry as a "side-line" at first, or, in other words, have some other source of income upon which to depend until you are well established in the poultry business.

Even then you may find it to your advantage to devote a part of your time to other pursuits, such as bee-keeping, gardening or the growing of small fruits.

Some strawberry growers keep chickens, and others keep Indian Runners ducks to devour the insects which would otherwise injure the crop.

Needless to add, the fowls will devour the fruit as well as the insects, if allowed free range when the fruit is ripening. A number of yards enclosed with poultry netting will be found convenient at such times, as well as when eggs are wanted for the hatching purposes.

Don't attempt to make at first have a well defined object in view.

MAKING PROFIT IN GUINEAS

Fowls Delight in Dry, Warm Weather With Plenty of Eggs to Balance Up Their Ration.

No doubt a number of persons will have their first experience at guinea raising this summer and naturally they will think that in order to succeed the young guineas should be hatched early in the season. This is a mistake as the guinea delights in warm, dry weather and plenty of bugs and grasshoppers to balance up its ration.

The best season for raising young guineas is from the middle of June until first of August, says a writer in Farmers' Review. Guinea hatched as late as the first of August stand a good chance to get to a marketable size by Christmas.

If the guineas are hatched under chicken hens they should be kept in confinement for a few days until they learn the call of their adopted mother else they may stray away. Then they should be given free range, but taught to come to the shelter at roosting time.

PRACTICAL FACTS ABOUT DUCK RAISING

A Fine Flock of Ducklings.

(By L. M. BENNINGTON.)

Change the pens of the ducks and sow the unused ground with rye or barley.

To fatten ducks do not allow them to have access to a swimming pool, as the exercise of swimming keeps them down.

The ground and duck pen should be disinfected every spring and fall by digging up and sowing some kind of a green crop.

Feed and water ducks at the same time. You will notice that they take a sip of water after every two or three bites of food.

Young ducks are extremely nervous and cannot stand undue excitement. Keep the dogs and strangers away from them.

A light placed in the roosting quarters will keep the ducks quiet at night.

The water troughs should be deep enough to allow the ducks to plunge their heads entirely beneath the surface.

Young ducks should be ready for market at ten weeks old. No profit in feeding them after that.

Never set duck eggs under a duck—they are poor mothers. Put them under a large hen.

Provide plenty of shelter for the youngsters to which they can run during sudden storms.

If there is any difference, the duck runs should be kept cleaner than the chicken yards.

Round up the young ducklings before the storms. Sometimes they will sit on the ground with their bills open wide, pointing upward, during heavy storms and down.

It is claimed by those who have tried it that a cross of Muscovy drake on Pekin ducks will produce sterile progeny.

CULLING OUT BOARDER COWS

Farmers Need Not Maintain Chortable Institutions for Poor Animals—Keep Records.

If a farmer finds a cow $1 worth of food and she has back 50 cents worth of milk, this is not a bad deal. The cow was not a fool when she was bought. If she then was in a bad condition, and all the time she was milking, she was not a bad deal. The farmer should not have a cow in his herd that is not a good deal.

Phonetic Dictionary county farmers should have a culling record. The best year, with the help of the Phonetic Dictionary, they should have a culling record. The best year, with the help of the Phonetic Dictionary, they should have a culling record.

Before the plan had been in operation very long some of the farmers began to sell cows. They would have been deliberately rebelling themselves if they had not sold after they found out how poor certain of the animals were.

At the end of the year the association had complete records for 131 of the cows. These 131 cows averaged a return of $2.75 for each $1 worth of food consumed. The best one gave $3.25 and the poorest gave 55 cents for each $1 in feed. The five poorest averaged a profit of $7.50 each, and the five best cows averaged a profit of $10.25 each for the year. While the man with the poorest animal lost $1.65, the man with the best gained $10.25. The average profit on the whole bunch was $2.21 a head.

PROPER ATTENTION TO COWS

Kindness is Good Thing to Observe Around Dairy From Standpoint of Dollars and Cents.

Some cows ought to be milked three times a day. Their bags get so pressed with milk that they cause a great deal of trouble to the milkmaid.

Some men think that they must keep the cows always in fear of them or there will be trouble. That is a poor way to do. The cow that is afraid of her owner will not give as much milk as the cow that is not afraid.

ATTENTION GIVEN TO COWS

Assembling How Many Dairywomen Are Keeping Cows Instead of Animals Keeping Them.

The man who is making money in dairymaking is the man who thinks. It is astonishing how many men are keeping cows instead of cows keeping them, because the men do not think. A thinking man will not keep cows that do not pay a profit on the feed they consume. There is no way to determine the value of the individual cow except by keeping an account of the cost of feed and the value of the products of each cow.

This method often leads to increasing the profits by more judicious feeding and more efficient milking, or in other words it requires giving each cow individual attention.

Some dairymen may think that this work requires too much time, but after trying it out they are usually surprised to find how little time it really takes to keep an accurate record of the business. Every dairymen should be a business man.

Regularly be Important.

Regularly in milking and feeding is an important thing in connection with successful dairymaking. The cow that is fed at a certain time and if she is accustomed to being milked at a certain time, she will do better if that plan is followed systematically.

Silo Building in Kentucky.

The number of silos in Kentucky is increasing rapidly. A few years ago a silo was something of a curiosity in this part of the world. Now there are hundreds of them and the activity in construction indicates that in the near future there will be thousands.

A vigorous silo-building campaign is being carried on by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Both the Federal and State Departments of Agriculture are encouraging the building of silos in every way. The farmer who wants to build a silo may secure all the necessary drawings from the Experiment Station. If he so desires he may secure forms for building a concrete silo at a small rental. Furthermore the station will send an expert to supervise the erection of the silo.

The officials of the Experiment Station recommend that silos should be built of concrete and the reasons they advance for the use of this material being that the concrete silo may be built by the farmer with his regular help, using stone and gravel obtainable, perhaps, on his own farm; that the concrete silo is the strongest and most durable and is not subject to decay; that it does not blow down; that it does not need painting or repairs; that it is fireproof, rustproof and verminproof and that it is not unduly expensive. Most of the concrete silos built in Kentucky, it is stated, have cost little more than other kinds and in many instances they have been built for considerably less.

Some instances of the cost of concrete silos are given by the Experiment Station officials. A farmer in Harrison county built one at a total cost of $123, but he secured the stone from his own farm and did the work himself with the assistance of his farm help. A concrete silo twelve by thirty-two feet was erected under the supervision of the Experiment Station on a farm near Lebanon at a total cost of $150. Another silo fourteen by thirty-three cost $250. One sixteen by thirty cost $300, including foundation, roof and all materials and labor. ## WILHELM II, LORD OF WAR.

By HARRY M. DEAN.

O Lord of War, unsheath thy sword,
Long hast thou dreamed of this grim day;
When thou couldst loose thy mighty horde,
And swing thy legions to the fray.

With God's name ever on thy lips,
O king by chance, not right divine;
What reckons He of battleships,
And soldiers in a far-flung line?

We know not of the right or wrong
Of Allied armies, in the field;
But this we know: Their strength is strong,
And to thy sword they will not yield.

If "traitor friend and traitor foe"
Have lifted steel to meet thy steel;
Who broke the peace, who struck the blow,
That made the world with horror reel?

Thy dreams of empire swept thee on—
To keep the peace was given thee;
To stay red war and not be drawn
Into a grim conspiracy.

But when thy hand was raised on high,
A keen-edged sword flashed in the light;
No prayer for peace, but battle-cry—
Thy legions sweeping to the fight.

O Lord of War, thy blood-red hate
Shall yet consume thee, for the hour
Draws nigh when grim, relentless Fate
Shall strip thee of thy dream of power.

And in the end what is the gain
From fields clean-swept by shotted guns,
But years of black despair, and pain,
And mothers weeping for their sons?

The Kings at the Judgement Bar.

By WASHINGTON GLADDEN.

I doubt not this war will bring to the world at large some great gains—gains not sought by any of these combatants—gains not desired by most of them—gains won in spite of them all.

It will bring, in the first place, such a demonstration, not only of the horrors of war, but of its futility, its stupidity as the arbiter of international relationships, that there will be a mighty revulsion against war, and that we shall soon realize that we have seen the beginning of the end of it.

It will bring home to us, also, in the sufferings which we shall undergo through the rupture of all these industrial relations, and the interruption of human progress, and the dislocation of so much of the order of the world on which we have learned to depend, the truth that for this world industry and world commerce and world finance and world friendship we must have a world peace.

It will bring the kings of this world and their ministers and their chancellors—those of them especially who are most responsible for this outbreak—to the bar of the world's judgement. It will convict them of the most stupendous blunder and the most ghastly crime of history. It will demand of them very pointedly what reason they have to offer why they should not have their power considerably restricted. It may not insist upon disowning them, but it is pretty sure to give them notice that they have come into a new world order, where nations are not plunders of one another, or overlords of one another, but members one of another—in which

Each Christian nation shall take upon her
The law of the Christian man is vast:
The crown of the getter shall fall to the donor,
And last shall be first, while first shall be last
And to love best shall still be to reign unsurpassed.

shows that the cost in the neighborhood of $2.75 per ton capacity, though some have been built at a much smaller cost.

The uses of the silo are more generally understood by the Kentucky farmers. The livestock industry is much more profitable through the use of ensilage and the interest in silo construction foreshadows a material increase in cattle growing. —Courier-Journal.

Kentucky Crop Report.

A month of seasonable weather has made a vast change in the crop outlook for the State of Kentucky. Just as we issued report as of August 1st general rains began falling throughout the State. These rains have been seasonable for the last month and not excessive. It is difficult to believe that such a change in conditions could be made within thirty days. The farmers and live stock men of the State are rejoicing over the improved conditions, and a comparison of this month's report with that of last month is made to show what a great change has taken place throughout the State within the last month. The report of September 1st shows the condition of corn, burley tobacco, dark tobacco, cow peas, soy beans, blue grass, alfalfa, and clover improved more than 20 per cent. as compared with August 1st. Even fruit has been greatly improved by the rains. Live stock is given as being in better condition than a month ago. Garden conditions have also increased.

No one is surprised at the outcome of tobacco as a result of the rains. Tobacco is a weed and can give indications of almost a complete failure, and with seasonable weather makes a fine crop. It must not be forgotten, however, that the acreage of tobacco is greatly reduced and the stand imperfect. The greatest surprise is the improvement made in corn. Kentucky will have an average crop of corn, although a month ago it looked like it would be a very short crop. As one report says: "the rains have made good ears of corn out of bunnies."

In this connection it seems advisable to call the attention of the farmers of the State to the fact that every indication points to a high price for food stuffs for next year. The United States Government authorities, the railroads and commercial bodies of the country are encouraging the sowing of a large acreage for winter wheat. The European war will undoubtedly cause the grains and live stock produced in America to bring good prices during the next few months, if not for several years.

We, therefore, urge all farmers to increase their wheat acreage, and to use bone meal or acid phosphate on their wheat lands. There are but few acres in Kentucky that are not short in their supply of phosphoric acid; 200 to 300 lbs. of bone meal or acid phosphate per acre for wheat will usually prove a profitable investment. Rye, barley and winter oats will save corn, and should be sown as quickly as possible. All roughness possible should be saved and well cared for in order to save the feed bill for corn.

The State has not been so free of hog cholera for several years. Farmers will do well to keep their brood sows and to increase their number of sheep. Pork and mutton prices will unquestionably be high. If the war continues any length of time, wool will be much higher next year than this. The agents for European governments are busy buying horses and mules at the present time. Prices have not materially advanced, but with the war lasting for a few months, it is reasonable to expect cavalry and artillery horses, as well as mules, to very materially advance in price.

The tobacco grower will rejoice over the determination of the Federal Reserve Board to accept notes secured by warehouse receipts on tobacco to the extent of 75 per cent. of the value of the crop from banks, members of the Federal Reserve Association. Taken as a whole, the Kentucky farmer has every reason for looking to the future with a hopeful feeling. Every indication is that peace and prosperity are in prospect for him.

Very truly yours,
J. W. Newman,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

Division Teachers Meeting.

The teachers of Division 1 met at Central Point School Sept. 12 for their second monthly meeting. At roll call all but four teachers of the division answered. The following teachers were very welcome visitors: C. C. Hayden, Supt. of Greenville High School and Graded School; Will Colley, Principal of Depoy School; Will Young, of Pleasant Hill, and Miss Nell Shutt, of Greenville. The room was brightened and sweetened by a box of lovely roses sent out by Mrs. Jennie E. Roark, of Greenville.

The meeting was opened by Supervisor Young's reading 1 Cor. 13, and by repeating the Lord's Prayer. With J. W. Corzine in the chair, Miss Jeffers at desk, the discussion opened upon the Reading Circle books. Supervisor Young spoke of the wholesome benefit of directed play upon the school grounds and advised the teachers to attend specially to the reading circle book that deals with play and recreation.

After Mr. Young's talk a number of the teachers clubbed together to buy and use reading circle books.

The new speller was next taken up and discussed. Mr. Henry spoke first, expressing the opinion that it would be somewhat hard to use because the teachers do not have time to make the study of it they should.

Hayden opined that when we learn it that we will find this speller the best we have used. He showed the manner of word-building and vocabulary forming from the known to the unknown.

Language was next introduced by Supervisor Young who advised teachers to make an early effort to secure their pictures for Language study.

Trustee Camp of Central Point arose to protest against the waste of time in studying pictures in school. He claimed that pictures were of no use to children after they left school, but that their lives dealt with material things such as potatoes and corn, plowshares and shovels, with soil, the grosser things of life.

Then did Hayden unfold himself in such a speech as those present never heard him make before. One must have heard him to appreciate what he said; the manner is lost in the telling. He dwelt upon the influence of pictures upon our sordid lives. He spoke of how the turmoil is quieted and the restless, discouraged soul finds peace by looking at one of the world's masterpieces. He gave the story of a sad, burdened woman who was led to see the finer, bigger things through Millet's "Gleaners." He said the American nation was going too much to the practical and commercial and losing the finer sensibilities. The character of a nation by its attitude toward these expressions of God through man's hand, and the nation that sees above sordid commercialism is the one that lives, grows and waxes strong.

Following this lunch was announced. Central Point Helper's Club, having some experience in boarding teachers, spread a repast that was good to look at and better to partake of. There was more than enough for even hungry teachers.

After lunch Supervisor Young took the pictures of the Helper's Club and of the Girls Sewing Club, the members of which wore caps and aprons.

Upon resuming business the Central Point Girls Sewing Club held a short business session to give them training.

Next Miss Sparks told of her Reading Club. Her club started with her 5th grade, all agreeing to do some reading and to keep account of what was read. The children pay one cent per week, which amount the teacher doubles for each pupil. This money is used in buying supplementary readers and other books. The club meets once a week and one member reports upon what is read. Thus the children are trained into the love of reading for themselves and are guided by a wise teacher into what to read. Miss Sparks has indeed touched the key note in self educating.

Will Young told something of his club work and of the efforts being made to better the public highways. Good roads and good schools go hand in hand and Will's got the idea. Stay with it, Will.

At request of Supervisor Young the Central Point Helpers' Club had a business meeting such as they ordinarily have, the chief item being plans for the sanitary outbuildings they expect to put up.

Mr. Hayden arose to express appreciation of teachers for the cordial welcome and delicious lunch given by the Central Point Helpers' Club.

Three members of Graham Helpers Club were present and gave a cordial invitation for the next teachers' meeting to be held with them. While speaking of other sources of inspiration it would be unfitting to leave out our Supervisor. Such a dynamo of new courage and helpfulness he is. Unassuming, good natured, he makes us feel that we wouldn't be worth while if we don't do our best. Some day we will lay in a claim against him for making us work so hard. But then the trouble is he works harder than any of us, so the claim wouldn't be of any use.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Bogges, the canning expert, visited Central Point School, bringing the canner with her so the three members of her club might do their season's canning. Owing to lack of time the grown folks were not notified, much to their regret. The demonstration will be worth much to those who saw it. The twenty quarts of fruit were things of beauty and the girls have a bigger idea of home life than before Miss Bogges came. Miss Bogges is the one of an officers to note the position, for her sweet Christian character, her love of home life, and her conception of what are the best things of life. Teaching the girls to can is only a small part of her work, and already is seen the influence of what she is teaching and living.

Mr. Leslie Hale now has the distinction of being the owner of the only vacant business house in the city, but he is anxious to get out of the place of honor, and wants a renter.

Mr. Norman Levinson has rented the Chatham building, next to Long's bakery, and is filling it with ladies' and men's ready to wear goods, shoes, furnishings, etc. He will sell for cash, and will make the price that will bring business.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

Local Mention.

Highest grade films at the Queen.

Be sure and be at Young's opening.

Yet, why fret? "Punks" are plentiful and will soon be ripe.

Mr. J. C. Haden was here from Drakesboro the first of the week.

Mr. Fred Irvin and family were in Madisonville last Sunday.

Mr. V. H. Franklin is at Tar Springs for a stay of a few days.

Judge W. H. Yost is here from Madisonville on legal business.

Mr. And Mrs. C. W. Roark are in Louisville for the State Fair.

Mr. W. E. Jenkins has returned from a business trip to Ohio.

Do not forget the 24th and 25th. Young's Millinery, Cloak and Suit opening.

Mr. W. J. Cox, of Madisonville, has been here some days on legal business.

It's another way of saying it: Have you paid your taxes yet? Good night!

Mr. Sam Heltsley was here from Madisonville the first of the week on business matters.

Mrs. Oscar Wright, of Hopkinsville, has been here on a visit to relatives and friends.

To see the nobbiest styles shown in Millinery and Coat Suits be at W. A. Young's opening.

Mr. J. S. Miller is in Indianapolis on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Jake Gardner.

Mesdames C. M. Howard, J. L. Rogers and T. L. Roll are in Louisville this week.

Mr. George Eaves was in St. Louis last week, buying goods for the R. Martin Dry Goods Co.

Rose & Drake have the goods, and are busy preparing for their millinery opening Sept. 23 and 24.

Mr. R. F. Jarvis is in Louisville, and will spend several days with his wife, who is in Pope's sanitarium.

If it is good quality and low prices you are looking for go to W. A. Young's to do your shopping.

Mr. R. T. Martin has been confined to his home for several days, but is improving, and will soon be out again.

The Queen theatre is running licensed films, only, and of the highest class, giving the public the very best service.

Kirsch curtain rods at Roark's.

School Fair.

In about six weeks the Muhlenberg County School Fair will meet at Greenville. The committee is planning to have every school in the county take part. There will be contests in sewing, manual training, canning and farm products. The pupils of the various schools will demonstrate their ability in sewing, canning, etc. There will be an old-fashioned "Spelling match," hurdle races, speaking by one of the most famous men in the state and a band concert by the various bands of the county.

There will be announced on the day of the meeting other entertainments of great value to the educational public.

Every school will give an exhibit in its own house before the Fair. Words can not express the great good to the Schools, the pupils and the home that will come from the gathering at the School Fair. The exchange of ideas and the uniting of efforts such as come on days like this can not be estimated in terms of ordinary units.

We want to hear the chorus of 15,000 voices united for better schools and conditions in old Muhlenberg. Everything is free. Come and enjoy it. Many new features will be incorporated. You can not afford to miss it. Talk the School Fair and above all come and bring your children and your neighbors.

Mr. Tom Habb, of McNary, is Muhlenberg's representative at the boys' encampment at the State Fair at Louisville this week, and he will prove a worthy member of that notable band of young men.

State Fire Marshal Starts Things Here.

Mr. Gates Young, assistant state fire marshal, was here last Thursday, and was very busy distributing notices to owners and occupants of various properties in town to make changes and improvements suggested by inspections made some time ago. The office of the state fire marshal has grown to be one of the most active departments of the government, and negligent owners of property will not be permitted to allow buildings to get in shape whereby other property will be endangered by fire. The new law is a very strict one, entailing heavy penalties if suggestions are disregarded.

The Kentucky State Fair is drawing large crowds from all quarters to Louisville this week. The round trip rate from here is $4.30, and many people are attending from here and over the county.

Activity in Tie Market.

There has been great activity in the movement of railroad cross-ties during the past few weeks. All over the county the movement is strong, both the I. C. and L. & N. railroads taking vast quantities of this material. Reconstruction work is heavy now, the lines being overhauled and put in shape to withstand the ravages of winter traffic. For some year or so policies of retrenchment have ruled the railroads of the country, and there is now an extraordinary demand for ties, but if every section is doing its part as fully as Muhlenberg, there will be no shortage.

W. C. T. U. Elects Officers.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the local W. C. T. U. was held at the court house last Thursday, and was largely attended. Following is a list of the new officials:

President, Mrs. L. Z. Kirkpatrick.
Vice President, Mrs. Jean Simpson.

Killed By Log.

Mr. Wm. Welborn, aged 60 years, who lived near Bivin's schoolhouse, was killed last Monday afternoon while loading logs for Drake's mill. In the operation of loading, a log got away from him, rolling from the wagon and passing over his body, causing death in about two hours. Burial was at the Jones graveyard Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Welborn was a well known man, and had a host of friends. He is survived by his wife and nine children.

Rev. G. P. Dillon will conduct his last service of the year at the Methodist church Sunday night. The Louisville Conference convenes at Louisville next Wednesday, and as Mr. Dillon has served the church here four years, he will be placed in new fields, according to the rules of the church. He is universally loved, and our people regret to lose him and his wife, who will carry the very best wishes of all to their new work.

Rush Reynolds, a well known colored man, died at his home here last Saturday afternoon, after an illness of some months from tuberculosis. Burial was made in west end cemetery Sunday afternoon, following a service at the A. M. E. Zion church.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners gave a banquet at their hall last Saturday night, inviting the contractors of the city and several other friends. Everyone had a delightful time.

Vast numbers of our people are attending the carnival being given in Central City this week. The Metropolitan Shows is putting on the attractions, under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Puritans, and the large crowds are enjoying the occasion.

Cover paper, drawing sheets and all sorts of paper for school work in stock at this office.

Notice to A. S. of E. Members

The fourth session of the County Union of 1914 will meet at the Court House in Greenville the first Thursday and Friday in October which is the 1st and 2nd.

This is the session to elect officers for the year. We hope all locals will have their delegates present. There are also three Board Members to elect to fill the places of S. O. Sears, Edgar Nichols and Bradley Pittman.

The county has been re-districted and in the election of these Board Members we want to recognize a new line.

All parties having pooling contracts will get them filled out and returned by the County Union.

M. W. CARVER.

Miss Lizzie Williams, of Madisonville and Miss May Bass, of White Plains, were here Monday with Mrs. A. E. McCracken.

There was a social meeting of the W. C. T. U. last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lou Grundy, who, with Mrs. T. J. Slaton and Mrs. T. L. Roll, entertained the members. It was a memorial service in honor of Miss Frances Elizabeth Willard, and the program was a very interesting one, and much enjoyed. Refreshments were served to the thirty persons attending.

Central City W. C. T. U. members present were: Mesdames P. K. Sanlsburg, Ed frost, R. L. Bennett, and Miss Bessie Fuller.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Harry Wilkinson, a linen shower being given for the W. C. T. U. Settlement School, at Hinman, Ky. Towels and table napkins are especially needed, and it is hoped there will be a generous response.

Rev. O. A. Barbee conducted his concluding service at the Cumberland Presbyterian church last Sunday night, and it was a union service attended by members and ministers of all the churches. Rev. Barbee has made a host of warm friends here, and there is general regret over his departure. He has accepted work in the missionary field, and will make his home in Owensboro.

THE RECORD, 50c. per year.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Still one more reason to choose the famous Kitchen Cabinet is the fact that the cabinet is not a mere piece of furniture, but a complete kitchen in itself. It contains everything you need for the kitchen, from the sink to the stove, and from the refrigerator to the range. It is a complete kitchen in itself, and it is a complete kitchen in itself.

HINTS WORTH REMEMBERING

When traveling with a small group, it is best to have a small group of people. This is because a small group of people is easier to manage than a large group. It is also easier to find a place to stay for a small group than for a large group. Therefore, it is best to have a small group of people when traveling.

DISEASES OF POULTRY

GERMS AND PARASITES SHOULD BE KEPT OUT.

Here Used for Hatching Should Be Healthy and Dusted Well With Vermore Powder Before Setting.

It is a well-known fact that the health of a flock of poultry is of great importance. If the flock is healthy, it will produce a large number of healthy chicks. If the flock is unhealthy, it will produce a small number of unhealthy chicks. Therefore, it is important to keep the flock healthy at all times.

One of the best ways to keep a flock healthy is to keep it clean. This means that the flock should be kept in a clean, dry, and well-ventilated place. It should also be kept away from any sources of dirt and filth.

Another important thing to remember is to keep the flock free from disease. This means that any signs of disease should be reported to a veterinarian immediately. The veterinarian will then be able to prescribe the proper treatment for the disease.

It is also important to keep the flock free from parasites. This means that the flock should be kept in a place where there are no parasites. It should also be kept away from any sources of parasites.

Finally, it is important to keep the flock free from stress. This means that the flock should be kept in a place where it is not stressed. It should also be kept away from any sources of stress.

FOR THE POULTRY BEGINNER

Unless Necessity Has Had Some Previous Experience It Is Better to Begin in Small Way.

If you are intending to begin in the poultry business this spring without any previous experience do not start with a large flock.

It is better to begin with a small flock, as you will get your experience much cheaper and be better able to handle your flock as it increases.

Do not harbor the mistaken notion that there is not much work to be done about a poultry plant.

To be sure the work is light but you will find it to be about the busiest job you ever undertake.

A great deal has been printed about the large profits to be made in the business. In the cases where this is true it has been where the conditions have been unusually favorable as to markets, etc.

Don't expect a profit of from $5 to $8 a hen as some people claim to have made. If you clear between $2 and $3 a hen under ordinary conditions you will have reason to be proud of your work.

Quite likely as you gain your experience and find your markets you will be able to do better, but if you expect to make your fortune in a couple of years without any previous training you will be greatly disappointed.

Convenience of incubator. If you have an incubator, you can go to hatching chicks as soon as you have eggs enough, whereas you have to wait for a setting hen till she gets ready.

Early Hatched Chicks. Early hatched chicks are stronger and start laying in the fall, while summer hatches will not lay before spring.

Decees for Poultry. For poultry, fresh bones from the butcher shop pounded fine, are superior to the commercial bone meal.

When the flock is healthy, it will produce a large number of healthy chicks. If the flock is unhealthy, it will produce a small number of unhealthy chicks. Therefore, it is important to keep the flock healthy at all times.

ROARK'S POULTRY CARE

BEST USE OF CORN-FODDER

In Tests With Sheep at Massachusetts Station It Has Been Found to Be Good for Fattening.

By JAMES MCGOWAN, D. V. M.

Corn is an excellent feed for live stock, both grain and stalks being fed to advantage, but in feeding it care must be taken to give the best results. The grain is a concentrated source of nutriment, palatable, easily masticated and readily digested and assimilated, but for dairy cows, corn should never be made up more than one-half to three-fifths of the concentrate part of the ration. It needs roughage as cornstalks or hay fed with it, for corn is poor in protein, but rich in digestible carbohydrates. So for dairy cows, corn should be ground and fed with bran or middlings or ground oats which are richer in protein, rather than fed alone.

Corn fodder is the name given to the whole plant harvested with the ears on the stalks. The nutritive ratio of corn fodder has been ascertained to be about 1 to 11.5, so that some higher or protein food is necessary to properly balance it to get the good results, and either alfalfa or clover has been found excellent for the purpose. In tests with sheep the Massachusetts station has shown that different varieties of corn fodder, while varying slightly in digestibility, are good for fattening purposes. At the Massachusetts experiment farm corn fodder was fed to steers, and it proved to be a more profitable roughage than cut sheaves. Where small numbers of stock are kept, good results may be obtained by feeding cut corn fodder moistened with hot water and allowed to stand for 24 hours. The concentrated feeds, such as cottonseed meal, can be mixed with this mass and the whole fed out readily and waste little. In fact, it is better and safer to use with cottonseed meal than dried fodder or hay.

Corn fodder may also be fed to horses, but one-third of the bulk of the ration should be made up of some other material, preferably red clover or alfalfa. Avoid feeding soft corn, which is injurious to horses. As a matter of fact, corn stover is to be preferred to corn fodder for horses, with a slight addition of some concentrate feed. Shredding the stover is neither necessary nor desirable. The name corn stover is applied to the stalk after the ear of corn has been removed. Stover may be fed to dairy cows with good results, particularly if the stover is shredded and mixed with cut alfalfa or bran, oats, barley or peas, thus providing a valuable and cheap feed. Shredding adds value as it is more easily handled and stored and readily eaten by stock.

WASTEFUL FEEDING METHODS. Considerable Amount of Feed Could Be Saved by Providing Suitable Racks or Mangers.

One of the great sources of waste in feeding animals during the winter months is a failure to have a feed rack of some sort in which to put the feed. The feed is put on the ground and about one-third of it is wasted by the animals tramping it under foot. This could be remedied by putting up suitable feed racks or mangers.

Another source of waste is in feeding whole fodder. If the fodder could be shredded and fed in that form it would save about one-half of the fodder that is usually wasted when fed whole. The animals will not eat the whole fodder if they think that there is a grain of corn in it, but will nose it around, trample it under foot and waste a larger portion of it. When fed whole it is a good deal easier for them to pull it out of the rack or manger and trample it into the ground.

To save these little items of feed means the saving of good money and in the end a finer pocketbook.

Separate the Ewe. When the ewe is due to lamb, she should be shut off in a small stall well bedded with straw and protected by a good shed. Here she will be unmolested by the rest of the flock, and there will be no danger of the lamb becoming lost in the flock or the ewe becoming her neighbor. A few precautions will save the owner many a loss of lamb and a lot of trouble and worry.

When the flock is healthy, it will produce a large number of healthy chicks. If the flock is unhealthy, it will produce a small number of unhealthy chicks. Therefore, it is important to keep the flock healthy at all times.

One of the best ways to keep a flock healthy is to keep it clean. This means that the flock should be kept in a clean, dry, and well-ventilated place. It should also be kept away from any sources of dirt and filth.

Another important thing to remember is to keep the flock free from disease. This means that any signs of disease should be reported to a veterinarian immediately. The veterinarian will then be able to prescribe the proper treatment for the disease.

It is also important to keep the flock free from parasites. This means that the flock should be kept in a place where there are no parasites. It should also be kept away from any sources of parasites.

Finally, it is important to keep the flock free from stress. This means that the flock should be kept in a place where it is not stressed. It should also be kept away from any sources of stress.
